Romanian Pork Deal Protested

TEXARKANA — Lynn Lowe

of Garland (Miller County), Republican nominee for Fourth District congressman, said today he has sent a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, protesting what he described as the "Romanian pork plan."

Lowe said the plan is based upon the raising of hogs in Romania for shipment of pork meat to the United States for sale in the markets.

"The plan calls for a company in Bucharest to raise and process some 300,000 hogs a year," Lowe continued. "The Export-Import Bank would finance 72 per cent of the cost. Around 60 million pounds of pork would be produced in this manner for selling on the American market—all to the detriment of American hog raisers."

Lowe charged that this plan "is just another example of how the administration is manipulating farm prices and farm markets."

Lowe, a farmer-businessman who will face Democratic nominee David Pryor of Camden in the special and regular general elections, added, "This shows why so many American farmers are unable to make a livable profit off their land and must leave their farms in record numbers to seek reasonable profit and compensation for their working efforts."

"As I see it, there are two mistakes in this plan to market Communist-raised hogs in America," he declared. "One is the penalty to our American farmers and the other is the fact that our government is subsidizing a Communist economy by helping a Communist country raise hogs to be sold in America."

Lowe added, "It would be bad enough for our farmers if the plan involved raising hogs in a free and friendly country. But for our government to approve such a plan in a Communist country is absolutely outside understandable reasoning."

China's Piao May Rate as High as Mao

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Red China indicated officially today that Defense Minister Marshal Lin Piao is now the country's No. 2 man. It gave signs he might even be on a par with Mao Tse-tung himself.

The New China News Agency said Lin, 59, standing "shoulder to shoulder" with Mao, 72, addressed a million people in Peking on behalf of Mao and the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party.

It described Lin as Mao's "dearest comrade."

The official accounts, monitored here, did not say why Mao, appearing in a military uniform for the first time in years, did not speak for himself.

Evidence that the defense minister had pushed President Liu Shao-chi out of the No. 2 spot came when Lin was officially listed first after Mao.

Liu was listed eighth among those on the reviewing stand at the rally in Peking's Gate of Heavenly Peace Square. He was not called upon to speak, although he had been the spokesman for the Central Committee until the first of this month.

Neither Peking radio nor NCNA said outright that Lin had risen to his new eminence.

UN Invited to Look at Colonialism

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — For the first time in United Nations history, the special Committee on Colonialism is sending a mission to inspect a colony by invitation of the colonial power.

A seven-member subcommittee will leave tonight for Madrid to confer with authorities before visiting Spanish Equatorial Guinea, in West Africa.

The subcommittee includes representatives of Chile, Denmark, Mali, Poland, Sierra Leone, Syria and Tanzania. It has been instructed to investigate conditions in the territory "with a view to speeding up the implementation" of the U.N. General Assembly's 1960 declaration for the independence of colonial peoples.

At a recent meeting in Algiers, Spanish delegate Jaime de Pinies invited the committee to check on conditions in the territory.

Equatorial Guinea includes Fernando Poo and an adjacent smaller island in the Gulf of Guinea and Rio Muni on the west coast of Africa and three small offshore islands. The population totals about 235,000, of whom less than 12,000 are Europeans.

The Trusteeship Council has often sent missions to report back on territories held under U.N. trusteeship by various administering powers. But never before had the Committee on Colonialism, established in 1961, received an invitation to send a mission to a territory not under trusteeship.

In the early days of the United Nations, Spain refused even to supply information on its colonies to the committee.

Since the Committee on Colonialism was established in 1961, however, Spain has become the most cooperative of all the colonial powers.

Mixup Treads on Delicate Ground

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP) — There's never been anything quite like it: the mixup over the right of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to call witnesses in its investigation of protests against the American role in Viet Nam.

And because it cuts across the most delicate kind of ground—the separation of government powers, in this case the separation of the powers of the courts and Congress—almost surely nothing will come of it.

Between the two world wars congressional investigations made headlines with inquiries into the Teapot Dome scandal, munitions, public lands. This was in the realm of business.

After the war much of the investigating took a more personal turn. This was particularly true of investigations by the Committee on Un-American Activities.

The committee was first set up in 1938 on a year-by-year basis, became permanent with congressional action in 1945 and 1946. It could investigate practically anything from communism and the German-American Bund to atheism. It often was accused of acting as prosecuting attorney and jury, rolled into one.

Its tactics, like those of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, the Wisconsin Republican who headed a Senate subcommittee, were under attack for years. Some of the complaints the committee were that it exceeded its authority, that it was more interested in exposure than investigation, that it was trying to stifle free speech.

But in 1957 the Supreme Court ruled:

A witness before a committee has a perfect right under the protection of the U.S. Constitution's fifth amendment against self-incrimination to refuse to answer a question which might incriminate him, but—

"The protections of the first amendment (free speech) do not afford a witness the right to resist inquiry in all circumstances. The critical element is the existence of, and the weight to be ascribed to, the interest of the Congress in demanding disclosure from an unwilling witness."

That didn't leave a witness much room. In this case the House Committee on Un-American Activities, investigating activities against U.S. policies in Viet Nam, has subpoenaed 13 witnesses. Two of them got the American Civil Liberties Union to file suit to block the committee.

ACLU said the witnesses "have all been identified with diverse views antagonistic to the present administration's military policies."

"Their being called suggests an overall plan to discredit the peace movement and foreign policy dissent."

The ACLU set out to get a three-judge federal court to decide whether the action by which Congress created the House committee—that is, the authority given it—was constitutional at all.

To do that, because time was short, ACLU first had to ask and convince a federal judge—in this case Howard F. Corcoran—to issue an injunction to forbid the committee to meet until the three-judge panel could consider the constitutional question. He issued the injunction Monday.

There was an uproar from Congress—this was interference by the courts in the business of Congress, House members cried. A special three-judge panel met Monday—the panel included Corcoran—and wiped out the injunction, letting the committee meet, which it did it would have done anyway, delaying the court.

Now the other three-judge panel is still to meet but the action seems pretty certain here that the judges won't tell the committee it can't call witnesses. The witnesses at the committee hearings would have to be convinced of contempt, refusing to answer before they could appeal on whether they should have had to answer at all.

Economy Is Facing Some New Problems

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy still faces some nagging problems — high interest rates and the threat of further inflation — despite assurances from the Johnson administration that it's strong and healthy.

Since the beginning of a year, the pattern for prices and interest rates has been steadily upward. And the wage-price guidelines, one of the administration's major tools against inflation, now have been left for dead by their critics.

Even the administration, which still clings to the guidelines as official policy, is reassessing their value in the wake of this month's steel-price increases and an airline machinists' settlement which AFL-CIO President George Meany has described as wonderful.

The settlement was well above that prescribed by the guidelines.

Administration leaders expect a lessening of some of the economic pressures later in the year, but at the present time inflation and high interest rates are under intensive government study.

One top government economist only Wednesday described the containment of inflation as perhaps the greatest challenge facing the administration in the year ahead.

William H. Shaw, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, urged not only restraint but also short-term sacrifices by both labor and management to keep inflation under control.

And anti-inflationary pressure was exerted Wednesday by the Federal Reserve Board as it tightened credit restrictions on other notch, only one day after their interest rate for favored customers to 6 per cent.

The board raised from 5 to 6 per cent the legal minimum that the commercial banks must hold against certificates of deposit left for a specified period.

The new requirement, which goes into effect next month at several hundred banks with time deposits exceeding $5 million, means that for every $100 a bank obtains through a certificate of deposit, it must set aside $6 as a reserve instead of $5. It can lend the remaining $94 to customers.

A similar boost from 4 to 5 per cent was voted by the board June 27.

The new requirement, the board estimated, would reduce funds available for lending by banks by about $450 million.

The government noted Wednesday, however, one beneficial effect of high interest rates in reporting a balance of payments deficit of only $163 million for the second quarter of the year, the lowest quarterly figure in 12 months.

The Commerce Department credited the relatively good showing to an increase of foreign investment in high-interest deposit certificates.

But Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said this was a temporary factor and the government did not want to rely on high interest as its main tool to end the balance of payments difference between what Americans spend abroad and what foreigners spend in this country.

Asked if he considered Tuesday's increase in bank interest rates inflationary, Fowler replied: "An increase in the cost of money is an increase in costs just like . . . wages. To that degree it can contribute to inflation."

Fowler had urged the banks to limit their credit by rejecting more loan applications rather than relying on higher interest rates.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, told the House Wednesday it would get a chance next week to vote for lower interest rates. He urged support of a bill that would limit interest paid on certificates of deposit of $100,000 and under to 4.5 per cent.

Patman and others contend the certificates have siphoned funds from savings and loan associations and contributed to a shortage of mortgage money, a factor which has dropped housing starts to their lowest level in five years.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Wednesday in an Associated Press interview the economy was basically healthy and strong.

The stock market is feeling the effects of tight money. It hit a new low for the year Wednesday, and brokers blamed it on worry of inflation and uncertainty about the war in Viet Nam.

Both Favor the Reserve Call-up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. J. William Fulbright and John L. McClellan, both Arkansas Democrats, voted Wednesday in favor of an amendment to the defense appropriations act. The amendment authorizes President Johnson to call up individual military reservists to meet Viet Nam manpower needs. The amendment passed 66-21.

Encephalitis Brings Spray Over Dallas

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force planes begin systematic spraying of Dallas with insecticide Friday in a massive effort to check the spread of an encephalitis epidemic.

A U.S. Public Health Service official said it would be the first time aircraft have been used to fight such an epidemic.

City Health Director Hal J. Dewlett told a news conference Wednesday that the number of probable cases since July stood at 57, with two deaths possibly caused by the virus.

Dewlett quoted health officials as saying the situation has reached epidemic proportions.

Three twin-engine C123 aircraft arrived Wednesday from the 4500th Air Base Wing, Langley Air Force Base, Va., to prepare for the spraying of an insecticide known as Malathion.

The object is to kill swarms of the culex mosquito believed to be the carrier of the St. Louis type of encephalitis which has hit this city of 750,000.

Extraordinarily heavy rains which swamped Dallas in April are cited by health officials as one cause of the epidemic. The excess water created breeding grounds for mosquitoes.

Dr. John Kilpatrick, chief of the Research and Development Clinic, Communicable Disease Center, U.S. Public Health Service, Atlanta, Ga., said Malathion is harmless to human beings.

The colorless, orderless substance kills mosquitoes, flies and cockroaches on contact, he said.

Seeks Ruling on Petition

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Beryl Anthony Jr., deputy prosecutor here, said Wednesday he would ask the attorney general's office if a person's signature on a referendum petition must be the same as the signature on the voter registration books.

Mrs. Pansy Bryant, county clerk, asked Anthony for an opinion after she began trying to certify signature on a petition to get on the November general election ballot a proposal for voting machines for Union County.

Trotsky Memory Not Rehabilitated

MOSCOW (AP) — The memory of revolutionist Leon Trotsky will not be rehabilitated, Pravda said today. The Communist party paper criticized Western sources for suggesting such a thing might occur during the 50th anniversary celebrations of the revolution.

Trotsky was perhaps second only to V.I. Lenin as a leader of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution that brought communism to power. He lost out in a struggle with Josef V. Stalin and was later murdered in Mexico. He is denounced in the Soviet Union as a traitor.

"IN" CROWD IDEALS

Dear Helen: I guess you could say I'm with the "in" crowd. I'm grateful for that, because I'm really on the outskirts. My family is quite well off but not rolling in money like some of my friends. I'm not gorgeous enough to get me there without money. But I'm accepted and liked well enough so that the others try to haul me out when I make the wrong decisions. This has gone on all through high school, and now in college.

At summer school I met a fellow who definitely wasn't in my crowd. He isn't smooth. He works as a janitor and is getting through college all on his own because his folks are dead. He isn't good looking, and I think that's what bothers my crowd most. They say he just "does not fit in". He couldn't care less about clothes; if he wears a tie at all it never matches anything else.

But for the first time in my life, I can really talk to somebody. I thought others would recognize how wonderful he is — how understanding, full of ambition, etc. — and I was shocked when the crowd made fun of him.

Now in spite of myself, I'm beginning to see all the things THEY see. I hate myself for not having the guts to go my own way, and then I think, what if we got married, and I found out they were right? Outside of having minds that seem to meet — even if we don't agree on things, we love to discuss them. We have not got much in common, except that we love each other — I think. Can you love someone you're a tiny bit ashamed of? — SNOB

Dear Snob: You may have more in common than you think. Could be your man is a little ashamed of you for your shallowness, but he figures, given time, you'll outgrow it. Talk your differences out together and you'll find you share doubts as well as love.

If you were so romance-blinded you saw nothing wrong with one another, I wouldn't give two beans for your marriage. But when you are aware of your doubts and shortcomings and able to discuss them, you are on pretty solid ground.

In marriage LIKE plus LIKE sometimes equals friction because you're either competing with each other or recognizing your own weaknesses in your partner — and hating him for them. Few people like themselves well enough to live with a perpetual mirror.

The best matches come when one partner has strengths to counteract the other's weaknesses and vice versa. If you two measure up here, "Snob," forget what the crowd says and learn to be proud.

— H.

BROTHER TROUBLES AGAIN

Dear Helen: I have a 14-year-old brother and have to share my room with him. He leaves his clothes on the floor, under the bed, anywhere. I clean up because I'm ashamed to have friends see the room, but he couldn't care less what his friends think. Everytime they come over, it's a mess again. It seems like my Mom is on his side, and my Dad won't do anything. She says, "Oh leave it," but who wants to live in a pigpen?

When I say anything, he hits me. If I hit one of my two younger sisters, he hits me. He thinks he's king, just because he's the only boy in the family. Help — BROTHER TROUBLE, AGE 13

Dear B. T. A room of your own would be the most help of all. If your folks can't add on to the house, then perhaps they can add a partition. Why not draw up some plans? — h.

Dear Helen: I would like to know how certain kids become popular. They have dispositions like worms (mean and rotten); personalities like regards, they are ugly and also snobs. I'm not jealous, either. — T. C. S.

Dear T. Aren't you? — H.

Parents of the couple are Mr. Amos Daugherty of Stamps, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Taylor of Fordyce, Arkansas.

She had testified Cox "publicly embarrassed me by saying that he no longer wanted to be married to me."

The couple, wed Oct. 19, 1963, separated last March 5.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Leigh Taylor-Young, television's Cinderella girl of the 1966-67 season, has been an official member of ABC's "Peyton Place" cast for only six days — and already they have put her in a hospital gown and got her practicing operating a wheel chair.

That's the way things are in "Peyton Place," where life is a twice-a-week cycle of illness, emotional crisis, birth and sometimes death.

Miss Taylor-Young, 21, despite some anxiety about the confusion around her, appears to be handling her sudden exposure to limelight with mature calm.

A tall slender beauty with long, straight hair the color of blonde mahogany, and large green eyes in a heart-shaped face, this Birmingham, Mich., girl has been chosen to fill the spot — but not the character — vacated by Mia Farrow.

There is a theory, widely advanced by television's educated second-guessers, that one of the bases of "Peyton Place's" popularity has been curiosity about the identity of the young man who would sweep Allison Mackenzie off her feet.

Confusion between the identity of Mia Farrow and Allison Mackenzie settled that question some time ago. Miss Farrow, now Mrs. Frank Sinatra, will be written out in a couple of weeks and Miss Taylor-Young will be the next maiden to pique viewers' curiosity.

Producer Paul Monash frowns on comparisons between the two girls, but there is undoubted similarity, including a fawn-like shyness.

Leigh's British-type hyphenated name is her own idea and combines her real family name, Taylor, with that of her step-father who encouraged her theatrical ambitions.

After Birmingham High School, she attended Northwestern University for a time, quitting to go to New York and study with famed acting teacher Sandy Meisner. This, plus determined job-hunting, led to a small part in the short-lived "Three Bags Full" followed by a sort of vacation trip to Palm Springs.

"My agent thought it would be good after a bout with pneumonia — and that I might meet some important people," she said.

She did: Paul Monash, who was looking for a new girl in town. Leigh tested for the role and was signed in June — a well-kept secret.

She will be introduced into the series sometime in late September or early October. All "Peyton Place" story lines are guarded like allied invasion plans, but she will start out with only a first name — "Rachel" — and, to quote Monash, "enter in a dramatic fashion."

"She is more primitive than innocent," he said, mysteriously. "She comes from a deprived and peculiar environment."

Miss Taylor-Young was spending her lunch hour on the deserted set, sitting in the wheel chair and practicing turns, nibbling on a chicken salad sandwich and bleakly studying a script.

"I've never done anything like this — and besides learning about cameras and all the rest, including having three different directors, I've got to learn 16 pages of script," she fretted. "It's a whole new technique," she said. "It is difficult to sustain a mood or emotion when all these mechanical things are going on around."

Miss Taylor-Young obviously has plucked one of the season's acting plums. But all the artificial excitement surrounding the birth of a television star, the endless interviews and picture taking, seem to be swirling around without touching her.

"Sixteen pages!" she groaned and gave the wheel chair another spin.

ALL IN THE LINE OF DUTY DALLAS (AP) — Firemen in Dallas don't let little things such as their own safety awards presentations interfere with their firemanship.

The No. 3 District "C" shift was in the process of receiving the department's safety award when an alarm came in.

Three of the five trucks lined up in front of Woodrow Wilson High School for the ceremonies needed to the scene, put out the blaze, then returned to pick up their award plaques.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Specific Aids Help Relieve Discomforts of Emphysema

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

As the prevalence of emphysema has increased, so have the efforts of the medical profession to help those who have this disease. The treatment is not a single procedure but rather a program that includes drugs, postural drainage, oxygen and breathing exercises.

Although pure oxygen in moderation is necessary in the treatment of some persons with a severe form of the disease, it should not be used routinely. Persons with mild emphysema have been benefited by brief exposure to air at one-half the usual atmospheric pressure (a simulated altitude of 18,000 feet).

Special breathing exercises are usually prescribed to aid in forcing the trapped air out of the lungs. The victim must lie on his back and push out his abdomen by forcing his diaphragm downward during deep inhalation (1 1/2 seconds followed by a pause of one-half second), then pulling his abdomen in during slow expiration (3 seconds). A metronome set for a beat of one-half second is the best way to control the timing. Placing a sandbag weighing 15 to 30 pounds on the abdomen during this exercise increases the benefit. Two half-hour sessions a day are recommended.

None of the treatments outlined will cure emphysema but they will make the victim's life much more endurable. For prevention, support a movement for cleaner air in your city, don't start smoking or, if you smoke, give it up and see that every respiratory infection is treated promptly and not allowed to become chronic.

Q—Where I live there is still some question as to whether you should use boric acid to rinse babies' diapers or as an eyewash. Also, should one take baking soda for an acid stomach or mineral oil for constipation?

A—Styles change and when the reasons are good, the changes are for the better. The reason boric acid, a very weak antiseptic at best, is no longer recommended for rinsing babies' diapers is that this substance is a poison and can be absorbed through the skin. As an eyewash it is far inferior to a one-quarter per cent solution of zinc sulfate. Soda bicarbonate will give quick relief from water brash but has the disadvantage that it stimulates the stomach to produce more acid. Aluminum hydroxide tablets are easier to take and more effective.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Let's see how you plan your play at four hearts in a duplicate game. To start with you see that the contract is so normal that everyone else will be in the same spot. You also see that everyone is going to make at least four.

You also note that there is a play for six. You can draw trumps; lead a club from dummy and finesse your jack. Then if the finesse works you can play your ace and hope to drop the king.

This is the way that most players handled this dummy at the Republic of Texas sectional in Fort Worth. They won the diamond lead; played three rounds of trumps and attacked the clubs in the above manner. When the king of clubs failed to drop they wound up losing a club and two spades to make their contract without any overtricks.

Five very expert South players gave themselves an extra chance for the overtrick. They started proceedings the same way but after the jack of clubs held they entered dummy with the other top diamond and led a second club. When East followed with the nine they ducked in their own hand. West had to win the trick with the ten so that East was unable to get in to lead through the king of spades. Thus, these experts managed to make an important overtrick.

When Brad Gibbs of Dallas who won the open pairs with Don Reid of Dallas sat West he almost was the victim of this excellent line of play. The play did not work against him because Brad saw no reason to hang on to his ten of clubs. He played it under South's jack on the first lead of the suit. After this play there was no way for South to throw him in the lead.

You, South, bid:

What do you do?

A—Bid four no-trump. If your partner holds an ace, you plan to go to six. Obviously, the heart finesse will work for him.

Mays Blasts 535th; Koufax Injures Elbow

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie felt great; Sandy felt pain.
Mays' feeling came in the fourth inning Wednesday when he hit a home run that triggered San Francisco to a 4-3 victory over St. Louis.
Koufax's came in the second inning of Los Angeles' 5-1 loss to Cincinnati when he hurt his arthritic left elbow.
The home run was a historic one. It was the 535th of Mays' career and made him the second and greatest homer hitter and the greatest right-handed homer hitter of all time.
The blast, on a 3-2 pitch from Ray Washburn, sailed over the right field fence at Candlestick Park and vaulted Mays ahead of Jimmy Foxx on the all-time list.
The Giant center fielder, who tied Foxx the night before, now trails only Babe Ruth and his 714 homers. Ruth batted left-handed.
"I feel real great about it," Mays said afterward. "This is the first time anyone has achieved this in so short a time. The rest of those guys had 20 years, and I've had only 15."
Koufax was seeking his 20th victory Wednesday night but instead wound up with a sore elbow. He hurt it in the second inning when he struck out the side but didn't leave until the fifth.
"It's nothing different from what has happened to him before," said Dr. Robert Kerlan, Dodger team physician. "The elbow hurt him all season, but usually the pain is between pitching assignments."
"It's possible that Sandy will be able to warm up on the sidelines two days from now and then take his usual starting turn if the elbow is not swollen."
Koufax, whose next scheduled turn would be Sunday, received a cortisone injection in the elbow, then placed it in a bucket of ice — the usual ice treatment he gets after a game.
In other National League games, New York edged Pittsburgh, cutting the Pirates' lead to one-half game over San Francisco; Chicago trimmed Philadelphia 5-3 in 10 innings and Atlanta whipped Houston 6-1.
In the American League, Baltimore beat Boston 8-4, Detroit defeated New York 4-2, Minnesota downed California 5-3, Chicago swept Kansas City 4-2 and 5-1 and Cleveland topped Washington 5-3.
Mays' homer, his 30th of the season, cut the Cardinals' lead to 3-1. The Giants then tied it in the eighth on run-scoring singles by Tito Fuentes and Willie McCovey and won it in the ninth on Jesus Alou's run-scoring single.
Koufax' elbow apparently hurt in the fourth inning as he loaded the bases on walks. Leo Cardenas then rapped a double, driving in all three runners. That was enough to hand the southpaw his seventh defeat against 19 victories.
Pittsburgh took a 7-1 lead on homers by Willie Stargell, Bill Mazeroski and Donn Clendenon, but the Mets struck back for five runs in the fourth inning. Bob Taylor accounted for the last four runs with the first pinch-hit grand slam homer in Mets' history.
Ron Hunt then won it for New York with a two-out, two-run single in the sixth.
Ernie Banks snapped a 2-2 tie for Chicago with a three-run homer in the 10th. Rich Allen sent the game into overtime with a homer in the eighth.
Atlanta pushed past Houston with five runs in the sixth inning. Rico Carty singled home two of the runs and scored another on Denis Menke's single.

Arkansas Clings to League Lead

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Streaking Arkansas clung to its 4½-game Texas League baseball lead Wednesday night, blanking El Paso 6-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Frank Montgomery.
It was the sixth shutout of the season for Montgomery, who won his 12th game against 10 defeats.
Elsewhere in the Texas League, second place Amarillo beat Albuquerque 6-2 and Austin stopped Dallas-Fort Worth 2-1.
Catcher Danny Breeden paced the Traveler attack with three hits, the fourth straight night he's had three hits in a four-game Traveler winning string.

Veteran Race Car Driver Dies in Crash

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Veteran race car driver Ken Miles is dead after the violent crash of a Ford test car at Riverside Raceway.
The 47-year-old driver, who had been enjoying his best season since he started racing in his native England in 1938, died instantly Wednesday from severe head injuries, a track official said.
According to witnesses, the sports car he was driving plunged off a high bank near the final turn of the nine-turn course, rolled end-over-end and landed in the infield. Miles was thrown from the car, which burst into flames and was totally destroyed.
Officials estimated the machine, a prototype called the Formula J car, approached the turn near the end of the mile-long back straightaway at 176 miles an hour.
Miles, a slender and wiry physical fitness devotee, recently said of the dangers in auto racing:
"If you are going to indulge in the sport, that's one of the things you have to face, . . . and accept."
The veteran driver won two of the year's three major endurance sports car races — the Daytona 24-hour, when he teamed with Lloyd Ruby, and the Sebring 12-hour.

It Appears the Orioles Have Pennant

By DAVE OHARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Maybe nothing is as certain as death and taxes, but the next best bet appears to be the Baltimore Orioles as they charge toward the American League pennant.
Even Manager Hank Bauer is relaxed and in a joking mood in talking about the Orioles' chances. He can afford to. Only a collapse comparable to the fall of the Roman Empire can stop his charges.
Bauer grinned and admitted the Orioles planned a party when asked Wednesday what the club would do "after it clinched the pennant about Sept. 3."
"Too many things can happen in this game to become over-confident, but it's a lot better feeling being where we are than chasing other clubs," he said.
"I predicted during spring training that 100 victories would win the pennant and that's our goal," Bauer added. "Now I'll be very happy if we play .500 ball the rest of the way. All I want is 100. With 42 games to play, we'll hit that mark by playing .500."
The Orioles boosted their record to 79-41 while winning their eighth game in the last nine starts by belting the Boston Red Sox 8-4.
The Red Sox, who had just taken three of four games each with second place Detroit and third place Cleveland, were victims of ninth inning hits in dropping three straight to the high-flying Orioles.
The Orioles, who had 16 singles and two doubles in an 18-hit attack, erupted for five runs in the ninth inning of the Boston series windup. A two-run homer by Don Demeter in the Red Sox ninth was wasted.
Heat Is Fatal to Grid Player
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — An autopsy indicated that Robert W. Mocabee, 16-year-old high school junior who died Wednesday after football practice, died of a heat stroke. Dr. Lloyd Locascio, assistant coroner, said the exact cause of death has not been established, but that the autopsy findings were compatible with heat stroke.

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Mountaineering has become the biggest killer in Czechoslovak sports, the Czechoslovak sports weekly Sport Socialism reported.

Wants Match Declared No Contest

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A Seattle attorney plans to ask that the Las Vegas boxing match in which Seattle's Eddie Cotton lost to Jose Torres in a 15-round decision be declared a no-contest match.
Clay Nixon, the attorney, said he was acting on behalf of Cotton and his manager, George Chermers.
Nixon said the basis of the protest would be a television videotape which, he said, shows that the 14th round of the light heavyweight championship bout was "a minimum of 20 seconds short."
A Seattle television station, KING, said its news department had used a stopwatch to time the rounds after receiving numerous calls claiming some rounds were short. A KING spokesman said the check showed that the 14th round was short.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Admiring, a four-year-old filly home-bred by the Bieber-Jacobs Stable, topped the sale of 53 race horses, yearlings and shares at $310,000 Wednesday night in the Saratoga Sales ring of Fasig-Tipton Co., horse-auctioneers.
It was a world-record price for a thoroughbred sold at public sales.

AFL ---Houston Oilers

OFFENSE
PASSING—Wally Lemm should be able to squeeze the last bit of utility out of old George Blanda's arm. George's acting like an eager colt this summer. Besides, Jacky Lee and Don Trull are eager to pitch in, too, and from all reports are now able as well as willing. RATING—B+
RECEIVING—It's too bad they had to give up Willie Frazier as price for Ernie Ladd, but Bob McLeod is a sufficient stand-in at tight end. There's lots of talent for the wide receiving spots, led by the Charleys, Hennigan and Frazier. Right on their heels are Larry Elkins, recovered from a knee operation, and Dick Compton. RATING—A-
RUNNING—If John Henry Johnson has a whisper of his old form, the situation's pleasant to contemplate. At least, he'll give them the best pass blocking they've ever had. And at halfback, there is no more explosive combo than Ode Russell and Sid Blanks, both so good they'll probably have to split the job. RATING—B+
LINE—Reinforced by a quartet of strong rookies: Len Sears, Glen Ray Hines, George Rice, George Allen. At least two of them might wind up with regular jobs by season's end, and that means pushing around such established regulars as Walt Suggs, Bob Talamini and Sonny Bishop. John Frangillo has claimed the center post from Wayne Frazier. RATING—B
KICKING—In longevity and effectiveness, Blanda is almost in Lou Groza's class as a placekicker. Old George can handle it all. The Oilers have never found fault with Jim Norton's punting, either. RATING—A-

DEFENSE

LINE—Most remarkably improved department on team, simply by the injection of giants Ernie Ladd and Pat Holmes (down from Canadian football) in the middle. They've shoved Scott Appleton to bench, though he may be tried at end. Then how do you keep out Don Floyd or Gary Cutsinger? It's enough to make a coach smile. RATING—A-LINEBACKING—Doug Cline as the middle man is getting a strong push from Ron Caviness, but Johnny Baker and Danny Brabham are set on the corners. Baker's a rugged headhunter. Brabham's got to concentrate a little more. If Bobby Maples had more speed, he'd work his way in there. RATING—B-

Don Floyd Bob Talamini

SECONDARY—The holdover quartet of Tony Banfield and W. K. Hicks on the corners, Jim Norton and Fred Glick at the safeties, lines up intact. But that doesn't mean they're going to stay that way because an interesting rookie, Theo Viltz, is pressing for a chance to play. RATING—B
SUMMARY—The Oilers have made the most dramatic turnover in image, thanks to new gm Don Klosterman and the return of Lemm as coach. They were also prompt enough to bring in Ernie Ladd and Pat Holmes to boost a defense that had been the ruin of the Oilers the last couple of years. Give 'em a good year by John Henry Johnson, and look out! PREDICTION—FIRST

Kenya Government Warns All Asians

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya's government news agency and radio have warned the country's 180,000 Asians that the government may change its policy towards them and follow a less generous way of thinking.
The statements, made Monday, commented on the deportation of six Asians accused of having shown themselves by act and speech to be disloyal toward Kenya. This brought to nine the Asians deported during the past week.
"The whole Asian community today stands indicted by the actions of some of its members," the statement said.
The statement, most bitter yet launched against the community which controls much of Kenya's commerce, said "the Asian community would do well to heed the warning light now."

Negro Schools Join Athletic Association

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Several Negro high schools have voted to join the Arkansas Athletic Association, ruling body for sports in predominantly white schools, the Arkansas Gazette reported today.
If the Negro schools join the association, "there will apparently be very limited competition between white and Negro schools in football this fall, but presumably the Negro schools will compete in the AAA's basketball tournaments and track meets next springs," the Gazette said.
Officials in the state association said Wednesday that they had not received any applications from Negro schools, but the association has said previously that any qualified school may join.
A spokesman for the Little Rock school system was quoted as saying Horace Mann, a Negro school here, would play Little Rock Central Oct. 28 and Little Rock Hall Nov. 4.
An official of the Arkansas State Athletic Association, which is composed of Negro schools, said the ASAA understood that Negro schools would remain in Negro districts this year but would be added to the white districts next year.
Elza H. Hunter, secretary-treasurer of the ASAA, said schools in the Big Ten (Negro) voted unanimously last Saturday to join the AAA.
Hunter said the Class AAA schools in the ASAA voted unanimously Sunday to join the white organization.
The Big Ten is composed of Jones High of North Little Rock, Horace Mann, Merrill and Southeast of Pine Bluff, Langston of Hot Springs, Lincoln of Camden, Yeager of Hope, Washington of El Dorado, Peake of Arkadelphia and Washington of Texarkana.
Teams in the Negro Class AAA group are McAlmont Harris, Stuttgart, Forrest City, Jonesboro, Blytheville, West Memphis, Helena, Wynne and Marianna.

Treat Your Family to Pear Butter

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

PREPARE NOW for next December!

Last Christmas a friend sent us an utterly delightful assortment of preserves she had made in late summer and early fall and had stored away for gift-giving. One jar in the early decorated package especially interested us because it held old-time Pear Butter — and we begged for the recipe. If you are apt to become nostalgic about some of the wonderful preserves "put up" by Grandma, or maybe Great-grandma, you'll love this sweet. It tastes perfectly wonderful on buttered toast. And it is equally scrumptious as a filling for layers of butter-spiced cake. (A confession: when we used some of the Pear Butter for the cake filling, we added a suspicion of light rum.)

Whether you make Pear Butter for your family or for gifts, you can either can it or freeze it. Here are directions for both methods. Suit yourself.

MISSY'S PEAR BUTTER

8 pounds ripe pears, about 20 medium-size

1 2-cup water
3 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/4 cup honey
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Juice of 1 medium-size orange
1 2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 2 teaspoon ginger

Wash and quarter pears; cut off blossom and stem ends. Place pears in large kettle; add water; cover and cook over low heat until pears are soft, stirring occasionally. Spoon cooked pears, a portion at a time, into food mill placed over a bowl. Turn handle to strain pears. Measure 2 quarts strained pears into a large saucepan or kettle. Add sugar, honey, orange rind, orange juice, nutmeg and ginger. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, about 2 hours or until thick. Freeze or can in half-pint jars.

Makes about 4 half-pints.

PEAR BUTTER

Modern cooks make an old-time treat the convenient way: they use a food mill for straining the cooked pears.

Jars with a clean damp cloth. Put dome lids on jars and screw bands tight without forcing. Put jars into hot (not boiling) water on rack in kettle. Add boiling water to cover tops of jars. Cover kettle and when water comes to a fast rolling boil, start counting time. Process 10 minutes. Remove jars from bath and place 2 or 3 inches apart on several thicknesses of cloth; let cool about 12 hours. Remove bands. If center of lid is down or stays down when pressed, jar is properly sealed. Store jars in a cool dark dry place.

Cabbage Rolls--From An Italian Family

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Italians who settled in California added greatly to that state's reputation for good eating. Among them was the DeDomenico family, who began as produce and poultry store-keepers and later became experts in pasta making.

It was Lois DeDomenico, however, who thought up the idea of combining thin vermicelli with rice (another California product) and packaging it as a mix. Here's her suggestion for using it in cabbage rolls.

DeDOMENICO CABBAGE ROLLS

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

1 package (8 ounces) beef flavor vermicelli and rice mix
1 pound ground chuck steak
1 onion, chopped
1 carrot, coarsely grated

1 large head green cabbage
2 cups tomato puree (two 8-oz. cans)
2 cups chicken broth, canned or made with chicken bouillon cubes

Prepare vermicelli and rice mix according to package directions. Cool. In a deep saucepan or in the bottom section of a Dutch oven, saute beef, onion and carrot in a little butter or margarine until beef is brown and crumbly. Drain off any excess fat from the beef. Stir in cooked vermicelli and rice.

Remove core from cabbage and carefully pull off about 12 leaves, keeping them whole. Pour boiling water over leaves and allow to stand until cabbage leaves are wilted. Use vermicelli-rice mixture to fill cabbage leaves (more leaves may be needed, depending on their size). Roll up leaves, tucking in ends and fastening with a food pick.

Pour tomato puree into the saucepan or Dutch oven in which meat mixture was cooked. Put in cabbage rolls. Shred two cups of the remaining cabbage and sprinkle over rolls. Add chicken broth. Cover tightly and simmer, stirring occasionally, about one hour, or until cabbage is tender. Add more chicken broth, if necessary, to keep rolls from sticking.

Harvard Hunts for Talent

Very so often a forgetful American public rediscovers the old truism that talent in youth isn't measurable either by family income or social status. On the contrary, a vast reservoir of potential abilities is represented by thousands of young (people) to whom poverty denies the education that would enable them to enrich the nation with contributions it can ill afford to lose.

Harvard College is underlining that message anew with its "risk student" program. Under the plan 120 more students will enter with next fall's freshmen class. Selected from families below or near the poverty line of $4,000 a year income, these young men will receive scholarships paid for by Harvard's "risk fund," contributions from the federal anti-poverty program, and anonymous donors. Intellectual promise and gumption, not entrance examinations, govern the selection.

The experiment is paying off as attested by the fact that thus far 85 per cent of Harvard's "risk students" have graduated, and that Brown and Williams are trying it out also. The sooner similar programs multiply among colleges . . . the better. For the deeper meaning of this episode lies in its accent upon the promise of youth, and a helping hand from its elders. It is a timely reminder that the most precious gift each generation can give to its successor is a legacy of encouragement and hope. — Florence (S. C.) Corning News.

How to Quit Smoking?

Hayden L. Mees, a clinical research psychologist at the University of Oregon, reports hitting upon a curious new way to quit smoking. The method is simple: every time the smoker wants a cigarette, he imagines lighting one and inhaling the smoke; then he holds his breath — up to 30 seconds, if possible. If it works, the way it did for a group testing the method, the desire for the cigarette is then gone.

Tests thus far are too limited to be of much use, statistically speaking. Nor is Mees quite sure why the breathing-holding method works. "There are probably hundreds of things," he notes, "that would work for slightly different reasons." But the system does appear to have done wonders for some smokers with a desire to quit the habit. Let us hope that further tests will bear out these first promising results. — Macon (Ga.) News.

Dangerous Capsule of Radium Lost

NEW YORK (AP)—A small capsule of radium — pronounced potentially "highly dangerous" to any one handling it — has been lost in shipment by rail from Fort Worth, Tex., to New York City.

Physicists have warned the public, especially persons living along the main railroad routes between the two cities, not to pick up the silvery metal capsule if it is found.

Anyone finding anything that might be the capsule should mark the spot of discovery in some fashion and notify police, the instructions said Wednesday.

The cylinder is less than an inch long and its diameter is the size of a dime. At one end of the cylinder is an engraved serial number, 155001.

Hanson Blatz, director of the Office of Radiation Control of the New York City Department of Health, said the radium is dangerous only to someone who has been in close contact with the capsule for longer than 30 minutes.

Blatz said it would be particularly dangerous if anyone handled it or carried it on his person.

Radiation from the capsule could cause burns that might result in cancer or some other disease, the public was warned.

Band Director Just Can't Seem To Catch Up With His Success

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't seem able to get caught up with success," said Herb Alpert. "I'm not used to it."

"My goal isn't to make money — it's to find out what life is." But at 29, Herb, whose dark sideburns and matador build make him look like the late Rudolph Valentino, is riding a golden avalanche.

The slender trumpeter and his famed Tijuana Brass Band will gross, he figures an estimated $32 million this year as the result of breaking the sound barrier.

The sound barrier they broke was the sound of rock 'n' roll which has dominated the music world for years. They created a rollicking new sound, a sound in which Alpert wedded Dixieland jazz and the spirited rhythms of Mexico's strolling mariachi bands.

Herb, who has been blowing the trumpet since he was 8, first experimented with the new sound in a Los Angeles garage in 1962. But it was a full two years before the sound really caught the national fancy.

"There have been a lot of new musical sounds, and you can hear in advance really put your finger on one that the public will take to," said Herb. "But perhaps people were tired of protest music. Ours has

Sky Objects Caused by Rainmaker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those strange sights in the sky aren't little men from Mars, says Homer Berry of North Little Rock, the state's self-proclaimed rainmaker.

Berry said the so-called unidentified flying objects reported in Arkansas this week were his rain-making chemicals.

"I saw the same things myself," the retired Air Force major said. "To me it wasn't unidentified, because I identified it as my chemicals."

Berry said he had scattered chemicals around the state last week and the airborne chemicals sometimes ball up and produce organic and pumpkin-size objects which give off strange lights.

"I know it's my doing and I didn't want people to get too upset," Berry said.

Meanwhile, more reports of strange lights came from Newport, where two women and a policeman told of seeing them before dawn Wednesday.

Mrs. Velma Dunavin and Mrs. Myrl Williams, both of Newport Air Base, said they saw the lights about 1 a.m., while sitting on the back porch of Mrs. Dunavin's house.

They described the lights as red and green, numbering seven or eight, and traveling in a changing formation. The lights would move together "in a wad" and then move apart again, Mrs. Williams said.

New Protest Planned by King Group

CHICAGO (AP)—Civil rights forces planned new protest marches after seven hours of discussion failed to produce an armistice to the demonstrations for open housing.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his top lieutenants tell a meeting of civil rights workers today where and when the next protest parade will be staged.

King, though terming Wednesday's talks "amicable and significant in the future in making Chicago an open city in housing," said, "The demonstrations will continue!"

"We'll continue to keep the issue to the forefront. We made it clear in the meeting there would be no commitments on cessation of demonstrations."

King said the commitments that were brought up in the session were not broad enough to warrant calling off the marches.

Ben Heineman, chairman of the session that was called by the Chicago Conference on Race and Religion, expressed the hope that "all citizens of Chicago will respect their (the marchers') constitutional rights and refrain from any improper action."

Planes Keep Up Attacks, Two Are Lost

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—American warplanes continued their pounding of targets in North Viet Nam, the U.S. Military Command reported today, but two planes were lost.

On the ground, South Vietnamese government troops launched a new drive against Viet Cong guerrillas only three miles from Saigon after an upsurge of terrorist attacks on the fringes of the capital.

Elsewhere only scattered ground fighting was reported.

A U.S. military spokesman reported U.S. fighter-bombers flew 109 missions over the Communist North Wednesday and encountered three MIG17s.

Two MIGs made a pass at two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs while the U.S. jets were bombing the Nguyen Khe oil storage area only 10 miles north of Hanoi. A U.S. spokesman said neither side fired and the opponents broke contact.

Fourteen minutes later, another MIG17 made a firing pass at the lead plane of a flight of Thunderchiefs that was hitting the same oil dump.

The MIG broke off, the U.S. spokesman said, when he was fired on by the wingman of the attacked Thunderchief. Neither the U.S. planes nor the MIG were hit, the spokesman said.

During the raids a Thunderchief went down from unknown causes 85 miles west of Hanoi. Both crew members were listed as missing in action.

The U.S. spokesman also reported an F8 Crusader jet from the aircraft carrier USS Oriskany was shot down by Communist fire 15 miles northeast of Hanoi on the coast of North Viet Nam. The pilot bailed out over the sea and was picked up by an American rescue helicopter.

The two losses raised to 342 the number of American planes downed in the North since the air strikes against North Viet Nam began two years ago.

The U.S. Military Command also announced today that 101 American servicemen were killed in the fighting in Viet Nam last week, an increase of 30 over the previous week's toll.

Another 593 were wounded in action and 11 were listed as missing or captured.

The spokesman said 284 enemy troops were captured during the week, the highest total for a one-week period in the war.

South Vietnamese dead during the week were put at 128, compared with 130 for the previous week, and estimated Communist losses were 1,436, as against 649 for the week before.

In the ground action near Saigon, a battalion of government soldiers fanned out in pursuit of a Viet Cong force, estimated at 150 men, that ambushed a platoon of local militia Wednesday a few miles south of the city.

The drive was preceded by an artillery barrage that shook the capital. By nightfall, no contact with the enemy was reported.

The Viet Cong staged three forays in the Saigon area Wednesday and killed 15 Vietnamese. In the old imperial capital of Hue in the north, a terrorist bomb explosion at a pre-election carnival killed 28 persons and injured 151.

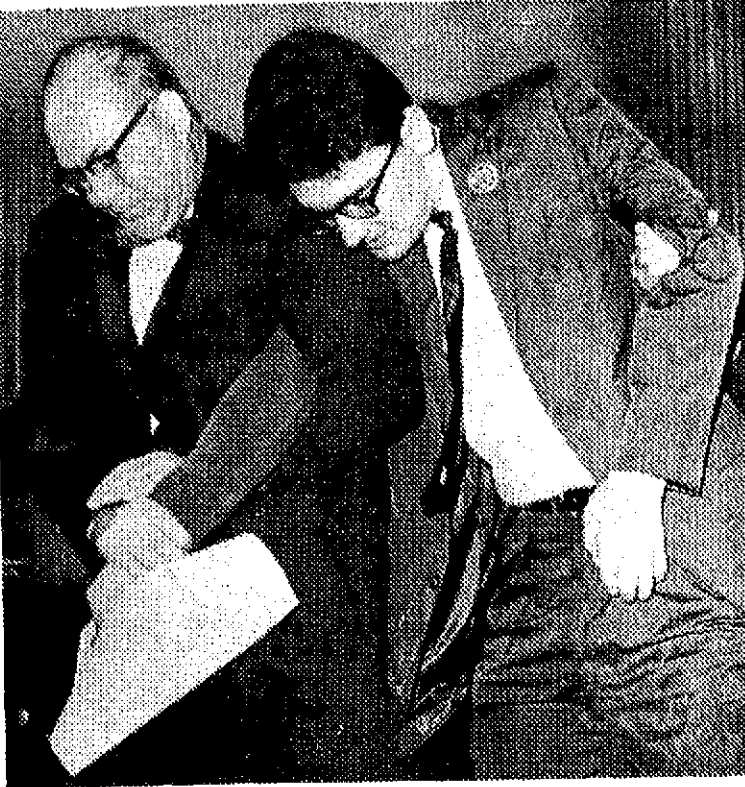

Funeral Homes Cut Service

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Five funeral homes at El Dorado will no longer furnish ambulance service in Union County in the near future, the owners said Wednesday night.

Owners of the funeral homes — Pratt's, Young's Andrews'n Sims' and Rumph's — said they would discuss the matter with the city council tonight.

The group said nationwide changes in the political, legal, medical and insurance fields and the number of employees and salaries required to maintain proper ambulance service made it impossible to continue the service.

Jerry Young, a spokesman for the funeral homes, said "No private business can operate at a loss for very long and this is exactly what the ambulance business in this area has been doing for many years."

Anti-War Witnesses Again Riot at the Hearings of HUAC

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House committee investigating anti-Viet Nam war groups faces a major decision involving witnesses today following the walkout of seven lawyers in another stormy session.

The lawyers, representing a dozen subpoenaed witnesses, marched from Wednesday's hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in protest of the forced expulsion of another attorney.

The committee must decide whether to dismiss the witnesses if they fail to get new lawyers by a noon EDT deadline today.

If the witnesses are dismissed, the committee could start questioning a number of people waiting to testify on the need for legislation to curb antiwar activities.

More than three dozen persons have been arrested during two days of hearings — 19 of them Wednesday — most for shouting, hissing, and cheering during the tumultuous sessions in the sprawling hearing room.

"I've seen enough," said Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., a committee member, after several of the subpoenaed witnesses tried to make speeches denouncing the committee and the Viet Nam War while being directed by acting Chairman Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., to get new lawyers.

Ichord said the hearings had shown "a very serious need for this legislation."

Bills sponsored by Pool and other committee members would slap maximum $20,000 fines and 20-year prison sentences on Americans who block shipment of U.S. men and materials to Viet Nam, or who help the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Senate Votes to Call Up Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, overriding objections from the White House and the Pentagon, has given President Johnson standby authority to call up thousands of reservists for possible active duty in Viet Nam.

Voting 66-21 Wednesday to tie the provision to the pending $58.2-billion annual defense money bill, the Senate heeded arguments that many draft-age youths were joining the Army Reserve and National Guard to avoid duty in the Southeast Asian war.

"We can't permit the six-month reserve training program to become an umbrella to avoid active service," declared Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former secretary of the Air Force.

Wednesday's vote amounted to a hard-fought victory for Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., its ranking Republican.

President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara have rejected previous proposals for mobilizing any of the citizen-soldier units of the armed services.

The Senate faces another battle over the huge defense bill today — this time from a small band of dissenting Democrats who are seeking to slash more than $500 million from it.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., offered the proposal to cut the funds from the $58,189,872,000 recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee. McGovern described his proposed move as "a modest reduction that would bring the bill in line with the administration's budget requests."

Joining him were Sens. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

The Russell-Saltonstall proposal specifically would authorize active-duty service for individual reservists of up to 24 consecutive months, less any time previously served on active training duty.

It could apply to thousands of reservists and National Guardsmen who volunteered to take a few months' training duty with the active or regular forces and then served additional years in the Reserve or Guard.

However, the amendment would exempt reservists or guardsmen who served in World War II, the Korean War or on active duty for more than two years.

The Senate rejected 62-26 a proposal from Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., that the callup be limited to young men not in units or to entire units, Russell argued that only seven or eight reservists would be taken from any unit, thus preventing any weakening of one unit.

Noting that President Johnson did not want the authority and might not use it, Russell said that the measure at least put the Senate on record in favor of "equality of service."

Under present law, Johnson cannot summon Reservists and Guardsmen to active duty unless he or Congress declares a national emergency.

The Georgia Democrat said Johnson had not issued such a declaration because it would make the United States appear ridiculous in the eyes of the world while engaged with "a third-rate power" such as North Viet Nam.

Russell and Saltonstall agreed during floor debate to limit the President's authority until June 30, 1968.

Joan Crosby's TV Notebook

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It was a scene out of a very bad gangster movie.

Two armed bodyguards, their jackets off and their shoulder holsters showing, sat at a kitchen table playing cards. In the living room, a bagman breakfasted on Scotch and scrambled eggs and chatted with an outsider, a television producer.

Fred Freed, the producer, recalled his reaction to the scene:

"I looked around the rooms and thought, 'My God, it's real.'"

Freed talked to the bagman, as well as to several other executives of Organized Crime. He gets capital letters because it represents from 6 to 10 per cent of the Gross National Product, for American White Paper: Organized Crime in the United States. This is a color special to which NBC-TV will devote all its prime time (7:30-11 p.m.) Thursday, Aug. 25.

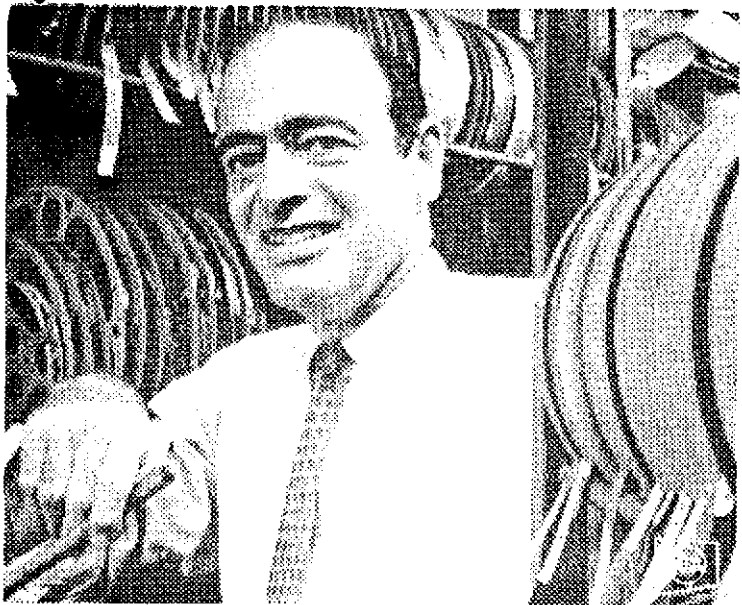

"We had hired the guards," Freed said, "because the bagman wanted protection. We put the guy up in a New York hotel but we had to find one without mob connections. It wasn't easy."

In the course of researching the show, on which he has been working for eight months, Freed has amassed some startling statistics.

For illegal gambling alone, Americans spend $47 billion a year, which is more than the entire automotive industry totals in sales. "And they say the American economy is based on the automobile," Freed says.

Next to national defense, Organized Crime is the biggest industry in the country.

In southern California, between Los Angeles and San Diego, the "mob" owns $2 billion worth of real estate.

TELEVISION PRODUCER Fred Freed spent eight months researching crime for American White Paper: Organized Crime in the United States, a three and a half-hour color special to be shown on NBC-TV Thursday, Aug. 25.

The total salaries of all policemen in the country add up to something under $1 billion, Freed estimates that Organized Crime pays twice as much to law enforcement officers to look the other way—in other words bribery.

"Organized Crime is now a recognized segment of the American economy," Freed says. "It has an effect on policy, politics and morality. In some societies, narcotics and gambling are not objectively bad things. We have made them illegal, but we demand them, so narcotics and gambling exist the same as the automobile."

During the program, narrated by Frank McGehee, a woman narcotics addict, a former numbers banker from Baltimore and a Chicago lawyer who got in back to the mob through heavy gambling tell their stories.

"We decided early that we would be direct and not hide the fact we were doing this any city, we were 'made.'"

DO-IT-YOURSELF Late Summer Painting Can Tolerate No Delay

By MR. FIX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Late summer and early fall are ideal times for exterior painting. But those pleasant, not-too-hot days can be followed quickly by wet blustery weather that will make painting impossible.

You can use your time fully for painting if you start ahead of time the necessary work of preparation. No paint job is going to be any better than the advance work you put into it. But unlike painting, preparation need not be done in long, uninterrupted stretches.

An hour or two during the early evening, a few hours during a weekend devoted to the advance work will leave you ready to paint and do nothing else when the time comes.

Old surfaces will generally have areas that are cracked, peeling or blistering. These spots cannot be painted over unless they are first scraped clean.

A putty knife or a hand scraper will do most of the work. Once all loose paint is removed, smooth the edges (feathering it is called) with sandpaper. An electric sander foundation meets, where boards meet in inside corners, under window sills and door sills, and around outdoor faucets where they come through the wall.

Check windows to see that panes of glass are securely putty. Putty will crack and shrink with age. Scrape away defective putty and replace. Glazing compound will last longer than ordinary putty. Before puttying, make certain that surfaces are clean. Coat exposed wood with linseed oil.

In some areas the paint may be sound but the surfaces quite dirty. This is especially true under a roof overhang which keeps rain from washing down the surfaces below.

Wash these areas to remove as much dirt as possible. Use a strong detergent or a cleaner such as tri-sodium-phosphate. Sometimes hosing off with a stiff stream of water will do the trick.

Gutters, downspouts and other metal surfaces should be checked for rust. A wire brush will remove most rust and sanding will finish the job. Once the metal is clean, paint with a good metal primer. The surface will then be ready for painting with the proper color trim.

Be Prepared

Have your equipment ready. Check ladders. Wooden ladders should be inspected for cracking or splitting. It's a good idea to place the ladder flat on the ground and then tread heavily on each rung. If one is going to break, it's better that it break now.

Brushes should be clean and ready to use. Soaking in linseed oil will help soften and condition them.

See if you will need drop cloths and get them now. Use them to protect ornamental shrubs, paved areas.

Discuss trim colors with your wife now. Don't wait until you have the job half done. Order your paint so that you don't have to stop and get more while painting. Although two coats are often recommended, one coat over a sound surface will be enough.

Now wait for a good day—no hotter than 90, no cooler than 50, dry and not windy.

Painting your house? Be sure you and your house are properly prepared.

or a drill with a sanding attachment will make the job go faster.

Spots that have been cleaned right down to the bare wood will need priming before final painting. Use whatever primer is recommended with the paint you will use.

Repair Cracks First

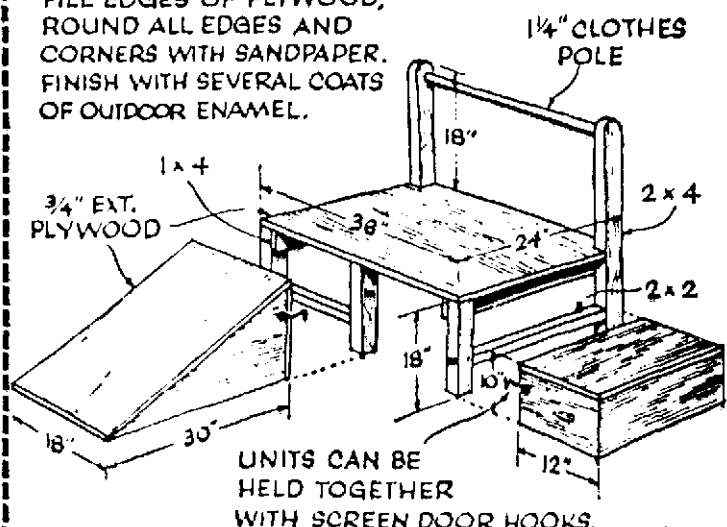

With all loose paint removed, concentrate on repairing cracks in the siding. Use putty in cracks, caulk compound around doors and windows. Caulk where siding and

GO-GO GIRL IN THE KITCHEN

On vacation? Time for experimenting in the kitchen. Whip up this spectacular torte and invite the gang over for cake and icy-cold beverages.

Read the recipe thoroughly. Begin by taking four eggs out of the refrigerator so they warm up to room temperature. Then gather together the rest of the ingredients. Whip cream and put back in the refrigerator. Put the three NABISCO Shredded Wheat Biscuits in a sturdy plastic bag and roll with a rolling pin to make fine, even crumbs. Then prepare fruit.

- FRUIT-TORTE
- Fruit:
- 1 (8-ounce) package DROM-EDARY Chopped Dates
 - 3 cups sliced nectarines (about 3 large)
 - 1 cup lemon juice
 - 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
 - Sugar to sweeten, optional
- Cake:
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 - 3 NABISCO Shredded Wheat Biscuits, finely rolled (about 1 cup crumbs)
 - 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
 - 4 eggs
 - 1 cup light brown sugar, packed
 - 1/2 cup orange marmalade
 - 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine, cooled

Prepare Fruits:
Place ingredients in a bowl. Toss gently to combine well. Refrigerate.

Cake:
Sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add shredded wheat biscuit crumbs and walnuts; set aside. Separate egg yolks into small bowl; and egg whites into large bowl of electric mixer. At medium speed, beat egg yolks. Gradually beat in sugar. Add marmalade. Beat until very thick and light, 5 to 7 minutes. At low speed, blend in dry ingredients alternately with melted butter, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Add almond extract and lemon juice. At high speed, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until moist distinct peaks form when beater is slowly raised. Using a wire whisk, gently fold in yolk mixture just until combined. Turn into a greased 9 x 3 1/2-inch tube pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven, 350 F., 30 minutes or just until surface springs back when lightly pressed with finger tip. Remove from oven. Let stand 5 minutes. Invert onto wire rack. When cold, cut in 3 layers crosswise, using a serrated knife. Spread bottom and middle layer with cream. Re-assemble. Refrigerate until ready to serve, but no more than one hour.

To Serve:
Toss fruits once again. Fill center of cake with fruits. Serve remaining fruits separately. Put confectioners' sugar in a strainer and sprinkle on top of cake. Makes 8-10 servings.

Give Roasting Chicken a Whirl

BIG, PLUMP roasting chickens match Labor Day appetites.

By GAYNOR MADDIX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Labor Day is the last long summer weekend. So celebrate with a bang-up party—lots of good food.

How about plump roasting chickens cooked on the rotisserie (indoors or out), basted with a special herb sauce. Big plump ones for a change, instead of broiler-fryers.

ROTISSERIED CHICKEN

- 1 or 2 roasting chickens, fresh or frozen
- Salt
- Herbed Basting Sauce

Thaw, if frozen, either in refrigerator or in cool tap water. Wash, drain and wipe dry. Sprinkle cavities with salt. Tie legs together, then to tail. Skewer or the neck skin to back. Hook wings back and under breast, if desired. Cook giblets and neck separately, as desired.

Follow manufacturers' directions for rotisserie. Or insert spit rod through body and neck cavities. Insert the holding forks into the ends of the chickens. Test for balance by rotating in the palms of the hands, then tighten screws securely. Brush the chickens with Herbed Basting Sauce.

Place in 400 degrees (hot) rotisserie. Cook chicken 30 to 45 minutes, depending on weight of chicken. Set temperature control at 350 degrees. Continue roasting until chicken is tender, about 30 to 40 minutes, brushing occasionally with basting sauce. Chicken is done when the thickest part of the drumstick feels soft when pressed with the fingers. Use a folded paper towel to protect fingers when testing. Let stand about 10 minutes for easier carving.

Herbed Basting Sauce: Combine 1/4 cup corn oil, 3 tablespoons wine vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon rosemary, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 cut clove garlic and 1 bay leaf. Let stand about one hour before using for flavors to blend. Remove garlic. Use as a marinade or as a basting sauce.

Make Yourself An Ice Cream Soda

THE HIGHER THE TEMPERATURE, the more delightful sodas are as instant refreshers. Make it so you can have many flavor combinations. In fact, you can have many flavors—Kool-Aid Instant Soft Drink Mix, lemon, lime, orange, raspberry, cherry, strawberry. Each one will make six delicious sodas for thirsty adults and children.

EASY SODAS

- 1 envelope instant soft drink mix, any flavor
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 bottle (1 pt. 12 oz.) club soda, chilled
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

Put instant soft drink mix and sugar in water in a large pitcher. Add cold water. Stir. Add club soda. Stir. Add ice cream. Stir. Serve with an extra splash of soda. Makes six delicious sodas. Makes about 2 quarts.

Compartmented Bath Saves Time

Instead of one large tub, consider a compartmented bath that will provide a separate wash-up area for the children and additional privacy for all. Vary the decorative treatment by using different types of tiling in the compartment.

For instance, heat-resistant Marlite panels comes in colors, woodgrains and decorative patterns. The woodgrains and patterns provide an interesting accent when used in conjunction with modern tile.

Wagner Provides the Smash of the Year

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It may take three hours, 35 minutes and 32 seconds to hear, and it may cost $23.99 for the set ($28.99 if you have stereo), but it's the recording event of the year.

It's RCA-Victor's complete, superlative recording of Wagner's Lohengrin, a performance that will enchant even non-Wagnerians. Sandor Konya, Lucine Amara, William Douglas, Rita Gorr and Jerome Hines are in excellent voice and the Boston Symphony, under Erich Leinsdorf's direction, is suitably sonorous.

The album is notable in that it is the first opera recorded in the United States.

BEST VOCAL BUYS

Some fine female singers have new albums. Best of the best is Nina Simone's "Wild is the Wind" (Philips), followed closely by Nancy Wilson's "Tender, Loving Care" (Capitol), "The Magnificent Miriam Makeba" (Mercury), "Shirley Means Bassey" (United Artists), "Lena Horne—Soul" (United Artists) and "Haunting Fire of the Fado—Amalia Rodrigues" (Capitol).

In the male vocal department, Harry Belafonte has his best album in a long time with "In My Quiet Room" (RCA Victor). The New Christy Minstrels have something different—and good—in "In Italy, In Italian" (Columbia). "More Chad and Jeremy" (Capitol) has the English lads in a nice selection of folk and semifolk songs. The Cyrle proves a good group in the modern groove with "Red Rubber Ball" (Columbia). Elvis Presley has a pleasant album in "Paradise—Hawaii Style" (RCA Victor) and The Beatles are The Beatles (that's a compliment) in "Yesterday and Today" (Capitol).

BEST INSTRUMENTAL BUYS

Carl Orf's "Carmina Burana" is given a beautiful performance by the New Philharmonia Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Rafael Fruhbeck de Burgos (Angel). Columbia has issued some fine collectors' items with "Bruno Walter's Mahler," "Bruno Walter's Bruckner," "Bruno Walter's Wagner," and "Bruno Walter's Brahms." Elizabeth Schwarzkopf spins some silvery pianissimos in "Strauss—Four Last Songs" (Angel) and Victoria de los Angeles sings favorites in "Opera Arias."

Neal Hefti, who composed the Batman theme, displays a good sense of humor and some foot-tapping rhythm in "Hefti in Gotham City" (RCA Victor). Some lush sounds in "John Barry Plays Film and TV Themes" (Capitol) and Al Hirt sparkles in "The Happy Trumpet" (RCA Victor).

ORIGINALITY

"Mame" is the Broadway smash, and Angela Lansbury and Jerry Lanning help make the original cast album a good one (Columbia). Ethel Merman is in fine voice in the revival of "Annie Get Your Gun" (RCA Victor). Movie sound tracks provide a couple of goodies with "Shakespeare Wallah" (Epic) with music by Satyajit Ray, and Henry Mancini's score for "Arabesque" (RCA Victor). Warner Brothers has issued the searing "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf" in two forms: one has the music and parts of the speeches; the other is the complete play with Taylor, Burton, Segal and Dennis.

CLASSICAL

Carl Orf's "Carmina Burana" is given a beautiful performance by the New Philharmonia Orchestra and Chorus,

LUCINE AMARA consults with Erich Leinsdorf during the recording of Lohengrin, with Leinsdorf conducting the Boston Symphony.

PHILADELPHIA STICKY BUNS
ACQUIRE PEANUT TOPPING

Philadelphia is the home of many fine food specialties, not the least of which are the famous topsy-turvy sweet rolls known as Philadelphia Sticky Buns. Traditionally baked in a heavy skillet containing a mixture of brown sugar and nuts, the buns are inverted after bak- ing so that the bottom becomes the topping.

Here, Philadelphia Sticky Buns take on new flavor and appeal with a caramel topping studded with Planters Dry Roasted Pea- nuts. Peanut Sticky Buns are traditionally prepared as a yeast dough; they're baked in muffin cups to make little in- dividual rolls.

The tangy new flavor and crispness of dry roasted pea- nuts is produced by roasting the nuts in high temperature ovens without oil or sugar, but with a light seasoning of spices. As a result, Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts are un- usually crisp and dry to the touch—making them a "natu- ral" for adding flavor and crunchiness to a variety of baked goods.

In Philadelphia, Sticky Buns are served at breakfast, tea and dinner. At the turn of the century, they were purchased fresh each day from street vendors. However, Peanut Sticky Buns are easy to prepare yourself, and may be frozen to keep fresh longer.

PEANUT STICKY BUNS
Makes 2 dozen buns

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Fleischmann's Margarine
1/2 cup warm water (105°-115°F.)
2 packages or cakes Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed

2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
4 1/2 cups unsifted flour (about)
1 cup (2 sticks) Fleischmann's Margarine
2 1/2 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 1/2 cups Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and 1/4 cup Fleischmann's Margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in Fleischmann's Yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, beaten eggs, grated orange peel and half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; turning once to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile prepare topping. Melt 1 cup Fleischmann's Margarine. Stir in 1 1/2 cups light brown sugar and 1 cup chopped Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts. Spoon into greased muffin pans. Combine remaining 1 cup light brown sugar, remaining 1/2 cup chopped Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts and cinnamon.

Punch dough down. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half to a 12-inch square. Sprinkle each half with the brown sugar-peanut mixture. Roll up lengthwise as for a jelly roll. Cut into 1-inch slices and place in prepared pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 25 minutes or until done.

Sanctuaries in Viet Nam Non-existent
By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — There are no sanctuaries in South Viet Nam for unarmed civilians.

Almost daily, guerrilla warfare takes its toll of civilian lives. Civilians are not even safe in the streets of Saigon.

There are no statistics on civilian deaths, but they run into the thousands. More are likely incidents last week, including the bombing of a Mekong River delta village by U.S. Air Force jets with the death of 26 villagers and injury to another 124, emphasize the plight of the innocent civilian caught between the Viet Cong and allied forces.

There have been other such bombings in which civilians were killed, unnoticed or unknown to the public. As one Vietnamese officer put it: "It happens all the time."

Last September, U.S. jets dropped four bombs in the hamlet of Gia Linh in the southern portion of the demilitarized zone, and Vietnamese policemen reported that 20 persons were killed and 10 others wounded. Later, a military spokesman said the bombings were apparently the result of pilots incorrectly identifying the killing of civilians results from the way the war is conducted, the selection of weapons.

Allied forces sometimes appear to be less selective than the Viet Cong. The allies have airpower and artillery, while the Viet Cong have none.

Whereas the Viet Cong might select for assassination one or two key leaders of a government-controlled village, South Vietnamese troops might call an air strike on a village to cut down a Viet Cong platoon or two — 30 to 60 men.

The bombing Aug. 9 of the delta village is an example.

The attack was ordered against the village of Truong Thanh by Lt. Col. Le Cong Thuong, chief of Phuoc Dinh province. It had been reported that 50 Viet Cong were in and around the village.

Col. Thuong called for an air strike. His request was relayed to American forces and sent to divisional Vietnamese and corps military levels for approvals, a procedure which must be followed. It was okayed.

Some folks talk extra loud to hide the fact they're saying anything.
